

Make a Difference – Become a Researcher

Indigenous PaCER Internship Program

www.pacerinnovates.ca

@PacerInnovates

Who

Patient and Community Engagement Research (PaCER) is a research support unit within the O'Brien Institute for Public Health at the University of Calgary.

Our mission is to train patient engagement researchers for the AHS Strategic Clinical Networks™, as well as new careers in research, patient engagement and PaCER

Inc.

What

PaCERs use their experience as patients to make a difference in health care research and planning.

The year long Internship training program is conducted as a group project and is designed to accommodate individual work and health needs.

When

Learn more about PaCER by attending an orientation

Calgary Oct. 23rd 10am-3pm
Carriage House Inn

Edmonton Oct. 26th 10am-3pm
Renaissance Edmonton Airport Hotel

We are looking to recruit 20 Indigenous people to complete a year-long training internship aimed at increasing your research skills and capacity

The purpose of the program is to build the research capacity of Indigenous community members to help inform culturally appropriate and safe approaches to cancer prevention and screening for Indigenous Albertans.

Tuition and fees are covered and you will receive a $5000 Internship Training Stipend along with a lab top

There are no education requirements

The PaCER Internship Program is structured so that you can still keep your day job, go to school or maintain your daily activities.

Mileage and Accommodation will be provided to attend the orientation sessions

Please RSVP by email or phone to:

Nicole Eshkakogan M.A., PhD (pc)
Indigenous Scientist, Alberta Health Services
Email: Nicole.Eshkakogan@ahs.ca
Phone: 403-955-0859 (preferred)
Cell Phone: 587-777-6178